

Registration Tips

Set Up Your CSU eID

If you have not already set up your CSU eID, you are welcome to set it up at any time. To set up an eID, you will need the following information:

- CSUID number
- Last Name
- Date of Birth

Go to: <https://eid.colostate.edu/>

Previously a CSU Student?

If you have previously attended CSU, please use your existing eID. If you do not know your CSUID number, please contact one of the following departments:

- Applicant: CSU, Office of Admissions 970-491-6909
- Current Student: Registrar Office 970-491-4860

Please Note

You will be able to register for DVM courses only after we have received and processed your signed acceptance.

Registering for Courses

1. Registration for DVM courses is a self-registration process using RAMweb
2. Before registering, you will need the course name, number, and CRN number which can all be found on the Registration Instructions provided CSU Courses or UAF Courses
3. Once in RAMweb, enter the five-digit CRN (Course Reference Number) for each course and click submit when you are done. If there is a lab associated with the course, you must register for the lecture and lab at the same time. The lab will have a different CRN than the lecture.
4. When you arrive on campus for classes, you may find you have been assigned to a lab section that is not the one you selected during registration. The lab sections(s) are assigned by course coordinators and are based on the need to keep groupings together for other activities, ie: dissections and small group projects.
